What Kind of Research Are You Interested in?

DIRECTIONS: Take some time to think about what aspects of society you would be interested in learning more about. What societal issue might you want to study? What social behavior would you want to understand more about? Whose point-of-view would you be interested in gaining more insight? You aren't limited to these questions, but they are something you can start from.

What would you like to study or research?

What is your observation?

What is your question?

What is your hypothesis? Remember, this is typically a If....Then.... Statement.

What is your prediction that might happen?

What research method would you use to collect data?

What type of research will it be, qualitative or quantitative and why?

What studies similar to this have already been conducted?

What did they find?
